The Caddo Parish Commission met in a Regular Session, on the above date, at 3:30 p.m., in the Government Chambers, with Mr. G. Young, presiding, and the following members in attendance constituting a quorum: Commissioners Atkins, Blake, Burrell, Cothran, Epperson, Gage-Watts, Jones, Lazarus, Thomas, G. Young, and J. Young (11). ABSENT: Commissioner Kracman (1).

Mrs. Gage-Watts gave the invocation, and Mr. J. Young led the Commission in the Pledge of Allegiance.

AGENDA ADDITIONS

It was moved by Mrs. Gage-Watts, seconded by Mr. J. Young, that the agenda be expanded to add the New Business item—authorize Administration to direct up to $30k for emergency response to Shreveport Volunteer Network and $30k for emergency housing support funding from the Emergency Repair Funding already allocated in the Reserve Trust Fund.

President G. Young opened the floor for anyone to speak in favor or against adding these items to the agenda. There being no one to speak, the President closed the public hearing.

Mr. J. Young commended the Shreveport Volunteer Network for its response during prior winter events (“Snowmageddon”) and ongoing assistance.

Mr. Atkins supported the addition as prudent and noted the amounts were reasonable.

At this time, Mrs. Gage-Watts’ motion carried unanimously with Commissioner Kracman being absent.

CITIZENS COMMENTS

Coburn Burroughs came before the Commission and gave the following comment:

Hello, Coburn Burroughs, 236 Cullom Drive, Bossier City, Louisiana. Thank you for the opportunity to speak this evening. I’m here on behalf of Mark Yawn and offer my full support for his appointment as constable. I’m a local attorney serving the Shreveport-Bossier community. The role of constable is not just a title. It is a position of trust, responsibility, and service. It requires someone who understands the law, respects the community, and is committed to fairness and integrity and public safety. Mark Yawn embodies these qualities. Mr. Yawn approaches every task with professionalism, accountability, and a calm, level-headed demeanor. These are critical traits for a constable, especially in situations that require sound judgment and clear decision-making. Beyond his qualifications and experience, what truly sets Mark apart is his character. He’s someone that believes in doing what is right, even when no one is watching. He treats people with dignity and respect, listens before acting, and understands that effective law enforcement is rooted in community trust and cooperation. Mr. Yawn is committed to upholding the law while also serving the people with fairness and compassion. He understands that a constable must balance authority with approachability, firmness with understanding, and enforcement with respect for individual rights. I’m confident he will carry out these duties with honor. I’m often caught off guard with Mark’s understanding of various legal topics I find myself rambling about, and he and I spend a lot of time together. His understanding of the law is thorough, and he could pass as one of my colleagues on most days with how well he grasps complex legal issues with fundamental understand. All of this being said, I strongly believe Mark Yawn is the right person for this position. His dedication, integrity, and commitment to service make him exceptionally well suited to serve as the constable. I respectfully support his appointment and ask that you do the same. Thank you for your consideration.

Gene Strogen came before the Commission and gave the following comment:

My name is Gene Strogen. I’m from Haughton, Louisiana, 226 Marshall Road, and I support Mark Yawn for constable because everything the former gentleman just said. He stands in the gap for the kids for the wrestling program at Byrd for the last 15 years. Anybody know anything about wrestling? It’s a complex sport. You got to deal with parents, administration, people from down south that really don’t like us, especially when we win. He been doing this, standing in gap, not getting paid, not asking for pay, for the last 10 years. I know personally his son and daughter have graduated from Byrd and he’s still there for other people’s kids. I’ve seen him tow people down to Baton Rouge and New Orleans for camps. Drop of a whim leaving at 4:00 in the morning, getting back at 3:00 at night the next day. Everything he said about being honest and straightforward is what a person needs in law enforcement, because we don’t have that today. It don’t make a difference if you’re in Shreveport, Bossier, Princeton, wherever. You need somebody that you can’t trust, and when people trust you with their kids, you can trust them to do the right thing when nobody is looking. Thank you.

Rick Creamer came before the Commission and gave the following comment:

Thank you for your time. I’m Rick Creamer. I live at 8833 Beau Chene, Shreveport, 71115. I’m a retired HR director with over 40 years of experience, and the last 25 years I’ve been with Builders Supply Company here in Shreveport. I’ve known Mark Yawn for over 40 years. He’s a hard-working, loyal, trustworthy, and one of the biggest hearts I've ever seen. Through the good times, as we've grown up with our children, through marriages, kids, sporting events, graduation, he's always been there. Always been there also during the bad times, during sicknesses, deaths, funerals, you can always count on him to be a part. He's a giver, whether it's his time, helping others move, cleaning up, or financially. He supports a lot of the school's events, fundraising events. He's always there to help the Byrd High School Wrestling Team. As you've heard mentioned, his kids have already graduated. His son wrestled there and has moved on. He's still providing for the men and the young women and the young men that are coming up through the wrestling program. So, I think he's helping them on the mat and then how to take care of life after the mat. He's a great leader, a great friend, a great husband, great father. So, I'm proud to call him my friend. I want to wish everybody luck with the decision and I don't think you'll be disappointed in working with Mark Yawn. Thank you.

Jim Mayo came before the Commission and gave the following comment:

I'm here to talk about Mark Yawn. I've known Mark for probably a little over 20 years. We've worked together many times in the film industry. Known him all my years as a sheriff's deputy. I'm now retired from there, but Mark's a good man. He respects the law and he understands it. He's one of those people you can call at 3:00 in the morning. He's somebody you can depend on. Whether it's a crisis or not. Mark is usually very calm, cool, collected. He would be a benefit to helping the community. Years ago, Mark said he always wanted to run for constable and once the kids got out of school and he had a little more time to devote to it that he was planning on doing it. And I'm proud that he is. Like I say, I've known him a lot of years, and while I went through the sheriff's academy, one of the things that all the judges, the lawyers, all the law enforcement, different instructors we had, one thing that they all said in common was just because you can doesn't always mean you should. So sometimes you can't follow everything by the law, maybe you should listen to your heart because that's got to be part of it, and Mark's one of those people that can do it both ways. So, I can't think of anybody that would do any better a job as a constable than Mark, and I appreciate it if you'd let him do it. Thank you.

Lindsey Lewis came before the Commission and gave the following comment:

Hello, Lindsey Lewis, 310 Wild Oak Drive, Shreveport, Louisiana, 71106. Thank you so much for having me here today. I am Lindsey Lewis and I'm PTSA president at Byrd High School and I'm also a very proud wrestling mom at Byrd. I am here today to speak in support of Mark Yawn and why I believe he should be appointed as constable. I know Mark not just by reputation, but through his actions. Mark is a volunteer wrestling coach for our kids, my son included. And I want to be clear about something. He does way more than just show up for wrestling. And he does way more than what is ever even asked of him. He shows up consistently early mornings, late afternoons, long evenings, weekends, often without recognition. He certainly does not ever expect anything in return. He gives his time, he gives his energy, his guidance, and he genuinely cares about all of our kids and the community. As a coach, Mark teaches wrestling, yes, but more importantly, he teaches discipline, accountability, respect, and integrity. He models calm leadership. He holds young people to a high standard while never losing sight of compassion. Those are the same qualities we should expect from someone serving as constable. I've watched Mark work with kids from all different backgrounds and abilities. He meets them where they are. He pushes them to be better people, not just wrestlers. And he understands that authority isn't about power. It's about responsibility and service. In my roles as PTSA president, I do work closely with a lot of families, educators, and community leaders. We are always asking the same question. "Who can we trust to serve and protect our school and community with fairness and heart?" From everything I've seen and know about Mark, he is that person. He already lives the values we want in a constable. He already serves without being asked. Appointing him wouldn't change who he is. It would simply give him the title to match the work he's already doing. I strongly and confidently support Mark Yawn for constable. And I thank you for considering his appointment.

It was then moved by Mrs. Gage-Watts, seconded by Mr. Thomas, to take the agenda out of order and take up the New Business item—appoint Interim Ward 8 Constable to fill vacant seat previously held by Patrick Young. Motion carried by acclamation with Commissioner Kracman being absent.

At this time, President G. Young allowed each candidate five minutes for a presentation to the Commissioners.

Heather Boucher came before the Commission and gave the following comment:

Heather Boucher, 9008 Vue Fleur Lane, Shreveport, Louisiana, 71106. Good afternoon, Commissioners. Thank you again for allowing me to talk to you all. I would like to share a little bit about me. I've lived in Ward 8 over 28 years with my husband, Grayson Boucher, whom I've been married to for 32 years. I have two beautiful daughters and four grandchildren and one on the way. Our family has a long history serving the community, not only as business owners, but as local politicians, first responders, and media. My husband is a third generation real estate broker and appraiser, but prior to that, he served our local community as a firefighter and later fire chief in Ward 8. And I was the owner of a successful nail and hair salon. You might remember the bright red doors right next door to Superior Grill. I sold it back in 2009. I sold the business to fulfill a calling. In the summer of 2009, I proudly put on a uniform and began serving Caddo Parish as a female reserve deputy. I have enjoyed over 15 years with several different agencies with my ultimate goal to be a voice for the voiceless which is my unending passion, because I myself remember at a young age being a female needing a fighter. I've had the privilege of working with victims that have survived domestic violence, sexual assault, and the unthinkable human trafficking. I've had a very fruitful law enforcement career, and I'm very blessed and thankful. During my time in law enforcement, I have developed and executed prevention and awareness classes because, in the end, being proactive is the biggest key in a safe environment. I would like to continue to be proactive and I believe serving as a constable would allow me to do that. It would provide me a platform to educate citizens about human trafficking, sexual assault awareness, and domestic violence. I want to have a safe place for our citizens to be educated in awareness and prevention. Litter is also a huge issue for me. In this role, I would like to develop programs alongside you Commissioners to tackle littering. I believe that programs can be developed and I would love to be at the forefront of those opportunities. Let's eradicate litter from our home and our community. I'm not here to showboat and I'm definitely not here to politic. I'm merely here to speak from my heart. I want to thank you all again for allowing me to come out today. I would truly love the opportunity to continue serving Ward 8, no longer as a deputy, but the constable. Justice of the Peace Lorick and I work well as a team and I would love the opportunity to continue working with him. Thank you again for your time and your service to our community. [Commissioner Gregory Young asked Mrs. Boucher what she feels are her greatest strength and greatest weakness for the position of constable.] My greatest strength is my knowledge, my experience, and my training that I've had for over 15 years in law enforcement. I love educating the community and I believe that's another good strength that I have. My weaknesses, I can always learn. There's always room for growth and learning. Thank you.

Mark Yawn came before the Commission and gave the following comment:

Good afternoon, I'm Mark Yawn. I'm at 613 Jonathan Clay Drive, Shreveport, Louisiana. Lived there for approximately 26 years. I grew up in Ward 8. I've been there all my life. I tell people I didn't even get out of the same zip code. Never. First time I moved was just across the pasture and with a mattress on my back. I bought a mobile home while I was in college and moved from my granny's house and carried it next door and so I didn't get very far. Ultimately, we found a wonderful place to live and in Ward 8 there just off Ellerbe Road. I've learned a lot, I know everybody just about in the community in that area from Linwood Avenue. I grew up just south of Cedar Grove. Single mother and a grandmother. Father chose to have another life without me. Sometimes they probably didn't blame him. My grandmother referred to me one time as raising a pine cone under your armpit. And I said, "What does that mean?" She said, "Think about it." So, I excelled in school, didn't start out that way, but at some point I realized if I was going to get anywhere in life, it was going to require me to do so. If I was going to take care of my family, I had to do the same. Been married 26 years to my wonderful wife, Mary, and it's been a wonderful, wonderful existence. I really, I've been so blessed with everything I've had. I'm trying to fill another position to help the rest of the community just the way I was. I had so many coaches come along time and pick me up, carry me to sports when we didn't have a car. There's actually a gentleman in this room that used to carry me to school because we didn't have a car. I've got two wonderful children. One wrestled for me. I took over the wrestling program. I've got an extensive martial arts background. I've taken almost every martial art over the years. I was decent at most. Probably not great at all of them, but could take care of myself over the years. I've owned two martial arts schools over the years. My son ended up wrestling. I took over the wrestling program. He ended up at Cornell University where he got a four-year degree and then went in and got a Masters at UNC in one year, wrestled there. Now he's working in D.C. I got a daughter in premed at Tech, and so I'm looking to fulfill what few hours I have left in my day. I want to be productive the rest of my life. Do a lot of volunteer work, but was told all my life that if you talk too much about your volunteer work, are you doing it for the right reason? I could go on and on. One of the biggest things I do is we sit on a case board for medical for a lot of prenatal care for children that can't and women that can't get prenatal care. It goes out in the community for that for health reasons, and I've been sitting on that board for about six years, my wife and I, and it's a very worthy cause. I could go on. I've own a construction company. I'm licensed in three states. I've got an unlimited contractor's license in Alabama and Florida, which is the hardest to get probably in the nation. I'm a general contractor in Louisiana. I also own a residential contracting license. I got in the movie business in 2006. I was inducted into the Screen Actors' Guild. I do a lot of stunt work for, I've done some stunt doubling work, but typically I do a lot of car driving, a lot of high performance driving, fight coordination, those kind of things. Wasn't a great actor, but occasionally they do cast me as an actor and it's probably not my strong suit, but I do do it. I currently have an FFL, federal firearms license. If anybody of you know about that, it's pretty difficult to get. You got to go through, they do a lot of background checks, those kind of things. So, I've had that good standing with the ATF for years. Still I can sell firearms, carry firearms. I also have a concealed carry permit. In fact, My. Mayo, I work with him, had to quality, that kind of thing. He's a firearms instructor, he forgot to tell y'all. I know I'm running out of time. I just want to tell you that I think I'd be a very qualified candidate. I think I can carry all the duties. I think all the necessary, everything necessary to do it. My undergraduate degree, I probably took every law class known to man. Every one LSUS offered, I took, I excelled in all of them. 2015, I was going to do the same thing. Reserve officer, passed all the testing, the psychological exams, everything there was to pass. I passed. They continued to move the academy back. It got into my time. Last but not least, I forgot to put my resume a while back in 2015, I was ordained as a deputy constable for Ward 8 Until '22. [Commissioner Gregory Young asked Mr. Yawn what he feels are his greatest strength and greatest weakness for the position of constable.] I think my greatest strength is compassion and understanding. I could tell you my greatest strength is my hand-to-hand combat, my shooting skills and all that. I think it's compassion. I know I grew up on the other side of the tracks. I know what it looks like. I know that by the grace of God, everybody could be in a tough position. I've been blessed and I think compassion and understanding. And through college, somebody asked me what I learned the most in college. And I think it was understanding of different people, different classes, different looks, different backgrounds, different everything. And I think that was the greatest thing I learned in college, was how to be more accepting. Because you know you grow up in a very small group, and I feel like that you get caught into that group, and I don't want to be in that group. I want to be in that group as compassionate as I can with anything that's out there for somebody that if I can help them in any way, that's what I want to do. That's how I want to fulfill the rest of my life. Weakness? Maybe compassion. I think sometimes I give too many people too much latitude, too much of my time, too much things when they have ulterior motives. Entering in this political arena, I've talk to most of you, it's not something that I really was excited to do. I've gotten a lot of great advice and you know, I admire y'all for doing this. What you're doing, you got in your position for the same reason I'm getting in. you want to help this community instead of turn your cheek, go the other way. It's awful easy to talk about doing something, believe me, that's an easy job to stand on the other side of the fence and them, "Hey, I want to help," and you don't do anything or tell somebody that I'm going to do this, and you never do. I don't want to do that. I want to be the guy. And if this is the position that y'all see me qualified to do, I want to go out and do it. And I think my weakness was believing that, I was told by another gentleman the other day, he said, "You're going to find out in the political arena that people that you think are your greatest friends will turn around ghost you." And said, "Soon as you become successful, they'll tell you they were standing behind you the whole time." I will tell you this, I feel like I'm at my own funeral. You know, we all miss, you know, when we go away and the preacher's praying for you and they come up to talk about you, you're gone. You're already in God's land. But I've had the ability to listen to things that are pretty embarrassing and overwhelming from friends and acquaintances that I've known over the years. And truly, wherever this goes, I'm blessed to have those guys. Thank you.
